NUMBER TEN PLEASANT STREET

SIDNEY CENTRAL SCHOOL
SIDNEY, NEW YORK

Main Street of School Days

MAIN Street, like other terms, has different meanings. You might think of it as the business section in any community, large or small, where the necessary business transactions are carried on from day to day. We think of our Main Street as the central route through school where we begin many of our educational and social functions. We learn to read and write, spell and think, win and lose, make-a-friend and be-a-friend; and we learn something of what our lives in the future will require of us when one day we reach the big intersections that take us out on the main street of the community.

Main Street of the community

Main Street of School Days

Come along now - on a journey along our main street. We have a good-sized business section here at Sidney Central; we are proud of it, too, and we have been spending years on it. Forty weeks a year, five days a week, six hours a day, thirteen years of a lifetime. It is not the time or the effort that matters most. We have learned to judge values here. Almost upon our first shopping tour we learned that this business of going to school is largely a matter of give-and-take-not give your money and take your goods, as it is in reality up the block a ways; but give the best you have as an individual, and receive, in return, the benefits of the knowledge and training of others.

The opening section of The Reflector is devoted to the administration, faculty and curriculum of our school. It has been labeled Central Service Station for it is through our teachers and classes that our needs are met and services rendered.

The Senior Section comes under the heading of Specialty Shop for the graduates-to-be are the school's prize treasures.

Following the Seniors are the remaining classes, from grades seven to eleven-our Department store.

Most communities have their recreational centers; we, too, have ours. The activities sponsored within the school provide entertainment, relaxation and enjoyment in many fields of concentration.

Our Calendar Factory closes the cover of this year's publication. It previews and reviews the major events that take place in a school year.

Here at Number Ten Pleasant Street we find a community in miniature and we learn that the more we improve the performance of our associations in school, the more we, in our turns, will build better Main Streets all over the world.

Station Travel Agent

Miss Ruth LeCaro, Guidance Director, is always willing to discuss with students college preparation, and to help them interpret the information in the college catalogs. There are over 600 college catalogs in the guidance office.

AT open house at the New York State Institute of Applied Arts and Science of Binghamton, some of the shop boys accompanied by Miss Ruth LeCaro, counselor, and Mr. George Diehl, shop instructor, register after their tour through the Institute. While there they studied the types of courses available for technological study.

Stenographers

Above, Miss Ruth Roys adds up the school expenditures on the new electric calculator. Mrs. Gloria Countryman, right, transcribes a letter for school business.

Repair Dept.

THERE are approximately 1550 students in Sidney School, and every-one of them subject to aches and pain, as reports Miss Ruth White, school nurse, to Mrs. Marjorie Garrison, dental hygenist.

Food Counter

SCALLOPED potatoes may mean good eating to the rest of the school, but to cafeteria staff Jean Topping, Shirley Hard, and Ruth Peck it means peel, peel, peel.

Pick-up and Delivery

THROUGH rain and sleet and snow and hail these bus drivers are responsible for the safe delivery of a large percent of our school population.

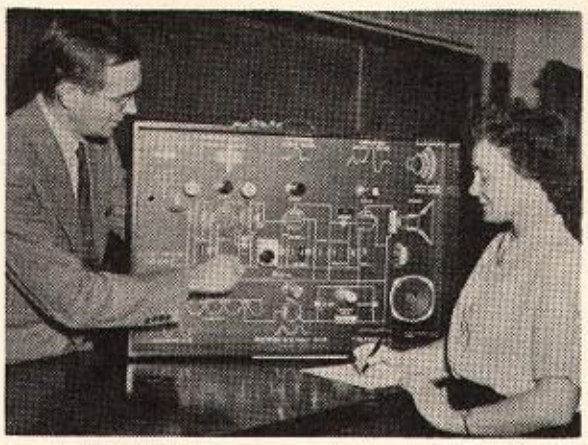
Attendants & Customers

Science

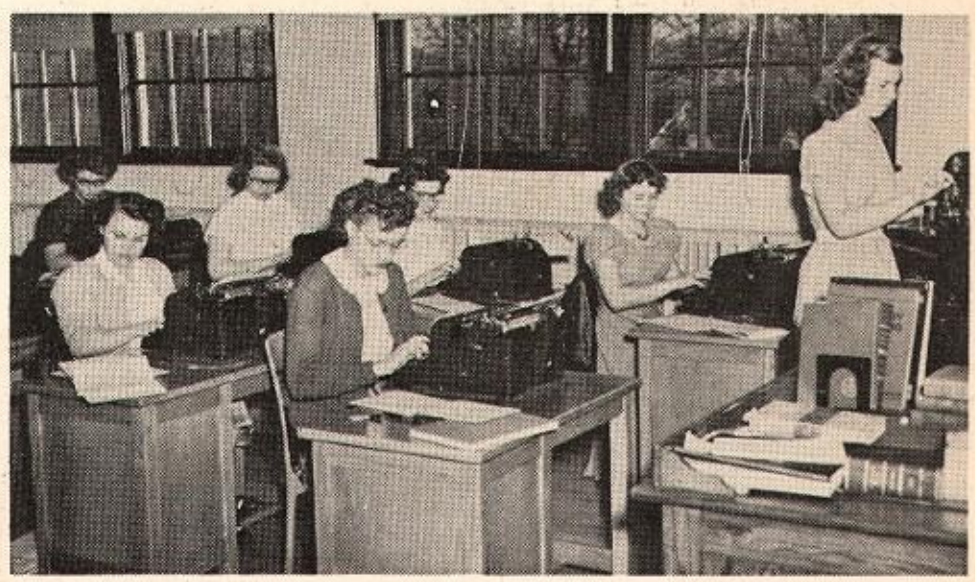


THIS diagram of a radio is complicated to the students, but to the scientists, Mr. Rankins and Miss Turner, it is obviously simple.

DICK Nelson is not attempting to blow up the school but is merely showing Dick DeChard, Gladys Mangs, Charlotte Washburn, Lina Demeree and Harriet Davis how to etch glass.

Commercial

MR. Combs and Mrs. Heimer, Commercial teachers, discuss the aspects of preparing students for the business world.



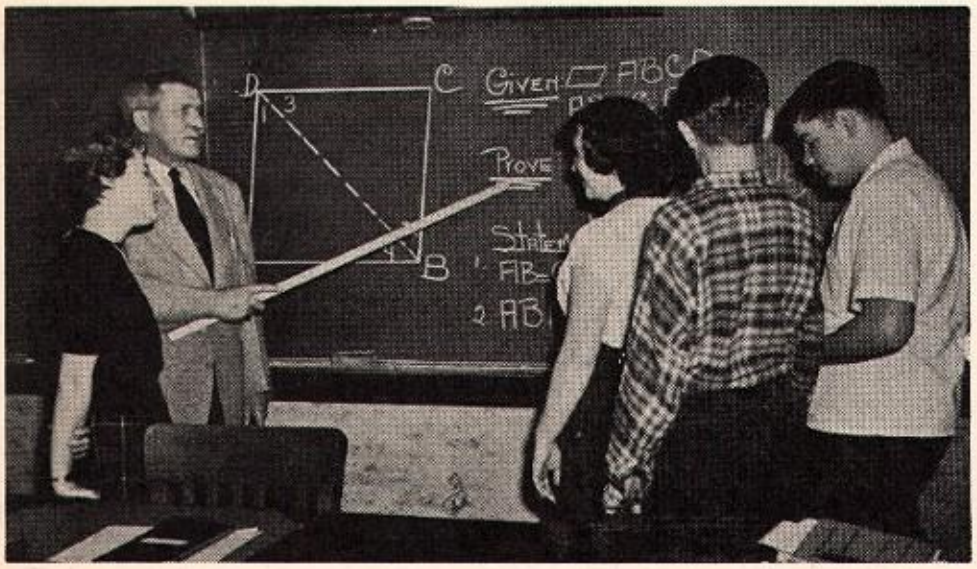
TYPISTS Beverley Brady, Grace Chilletti, Irene Eldred, Joyce Sanford, Beverly Boyce, Jannett Tuckey, and Alice Rosa prove that the one-fingered method is definitely out.

English

DANIEL Murdock presides over a meeting of the twelth grade "After Dinner Club". Secretary Beverly Boyce records the minutes of the meeting.

ALL English teachers agree about the advantages of visual education, but the intricacies of a slide projector might remain a mystery to Miss Sally Pine, Miss Mary Quinn and Miss Lydia Metz, if they did not study the instructions carefully.

Mathematics



WHILE Richard Robinson and David Sager look on, Mr. Hickling does his best to make a geometry theorem clear to Paula Nelson and Joyce Wood.

ALSO of the Math Department are Miss Erma Turner and Mr. George Salsibury who teach 8th Grade Math.

Language

USING Richard Holloway as a model, Ann Miller demonstrates to Latin III students David Bornstein and Ronald Sharp that the togas of ancient Rome had a definitely stylish drape.

THE Language Department offers both an ancient language and a modern one. Miss Mary Ann Stieglitz, left, teaches French. Mrs. Mary Ruland, right, instructs in Latin.

Social Studies

CONSTANCE Isbell demonstrates that she, too, can teach Social Studies as Mary Jane McGinnis, Douglas Sharp, Arnold Turtur and Nancy Hort listen intently to her lecture about civil rights.

THROUGH high school different aspects of Social Studies are taught. In junior high school, civics and world history are covered by Miss Mary Quinn, far right, and Mr. Alan Drake. In high school, Social Studies consists of American history taught by Miss Sally Pine, top, and world backgrounds, taught by Mrs. Mary Ruland, pictured with the language group above.

Art

ILLUSTRATING the airbrush technique, Robert Porter skillfully finishes a picture. Irene Brush and Marilyn Jordan, fellow classmates, critically scan the work done.

THE finished product is viewed by Mrs. Beulah Ryon, art instructor. She is discussing the development of airbrush technique.

Library

IN the absence of Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. Spinelli helps students select books for assignments and leisure reading.

MRS. Marian Dunbar, school librarian, is responsible for the extensive reading program of the grades and the high school.

Homemaking

GLADYS Mangs discovers that, with the knowledge and experience gained in her home economic's class, she can actually combine a sewing machine, material and a pattern, and come up with something really wearable.

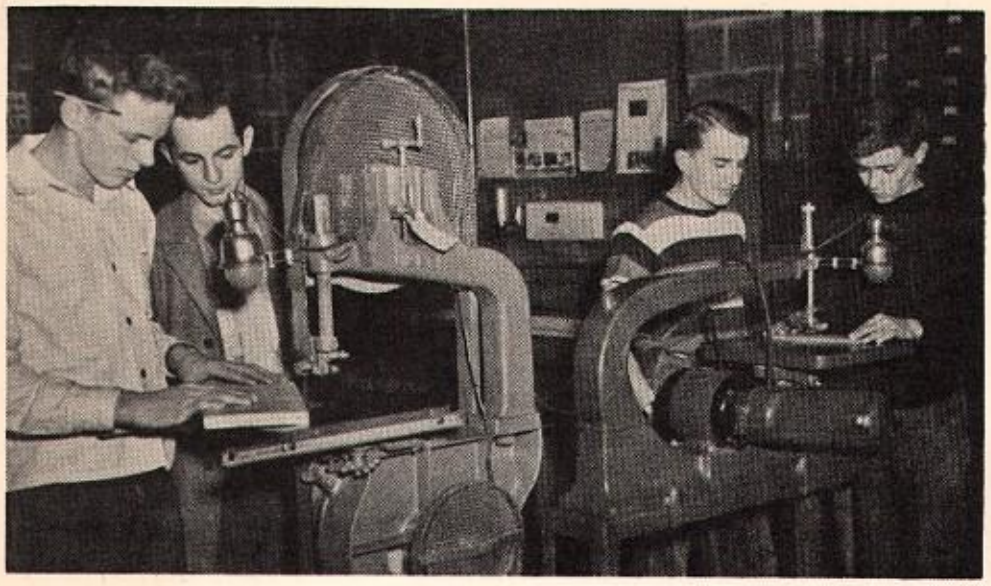
MISS Katherine Spencer teaches the arts of cooking, sewing, home management, home nursing, and budgeting which are grouped under the inclusive title of Home Economics.

Agriculture

WITH Ag students Donald Shields, Lawrence Sheldon, William Ostrander, Calvin Pritchard, Clarence Du Mond and Willy Hansen keeping such a close check on him, Clifford Mott hasn't a chance of pouring in a drop too much in his soil test.

MR. George Salisbury, who teaches the science of Agriculture, uses a miniature cow to point out the animal's anatomy.

Shop



JIG saw techniques are practiced by Kenneth Howe and William Hunt. Willard Knowlton and Henry Wood wait to see what puzzle comes forth.

SHOP is an ever expanding field. Mr. Diehl and Mr. Sheldon discuss the newest tools and machines developed.

Training Drivers

WOULD-be drivers Owen Dewey, Doris Reynolds, Leta Fisk, Irene Brush, Leona Wright and Mary Jane McGinnis prepare to jump out of the way as Lena Demeree and driving instructor Harry De Bloom start out in the Driver's Training Car.

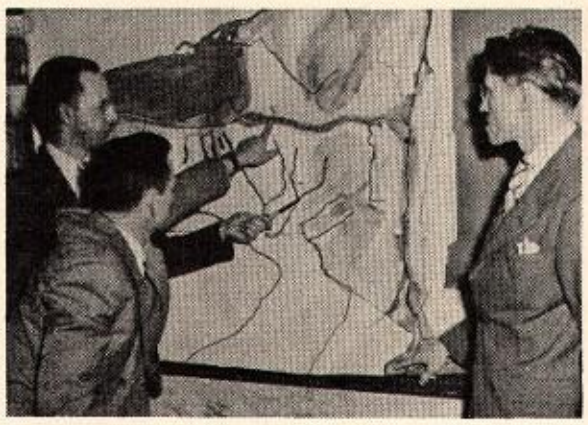
"Safety is his business." Through his driving classes, Mr. De Bloom turns out sportsmanlike student drivers.

Junior High

BY units, the 8th grade classes learn of different nations of the world. Clyde Miller is pointing out London as one of the important places they must be able to locate.

MR. Albert, one of the newest members of the faculty, plans the material he will present to his eighth grade class during the week.

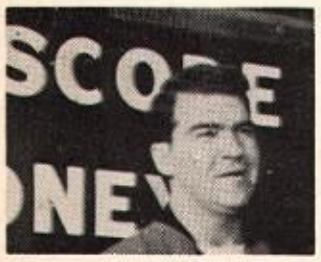
NO ancient history for this 7th grade Social Studies class. They're going to keep up to date by reading their current events.



MR. Gifford, Mr. Wade and Mr. Johnson review the location of events important in the history of New York State.

Phys. Ed.

MR. Charles Clark; Mr. Ralph Pyle, President of Rotary Club; and Mr. Harry Walton, program chairman, wait in anticipation for Norman Wheeler, Senior, and Jean Hoegger, Junior, to tell of the advantages from the student's point of view of a new gym and music room.



"A sound mind is usually found in a sound body," say Cortland graduates, Florence Skillman and Francis Redmond, as they see to it that Sidney students have their share of physical culture for maintaining good health.

"YOU, too, can have a body beautiful." The boys in gym class exhibit their muscular coordination in a creditable (if slightly shaky) pyramid.

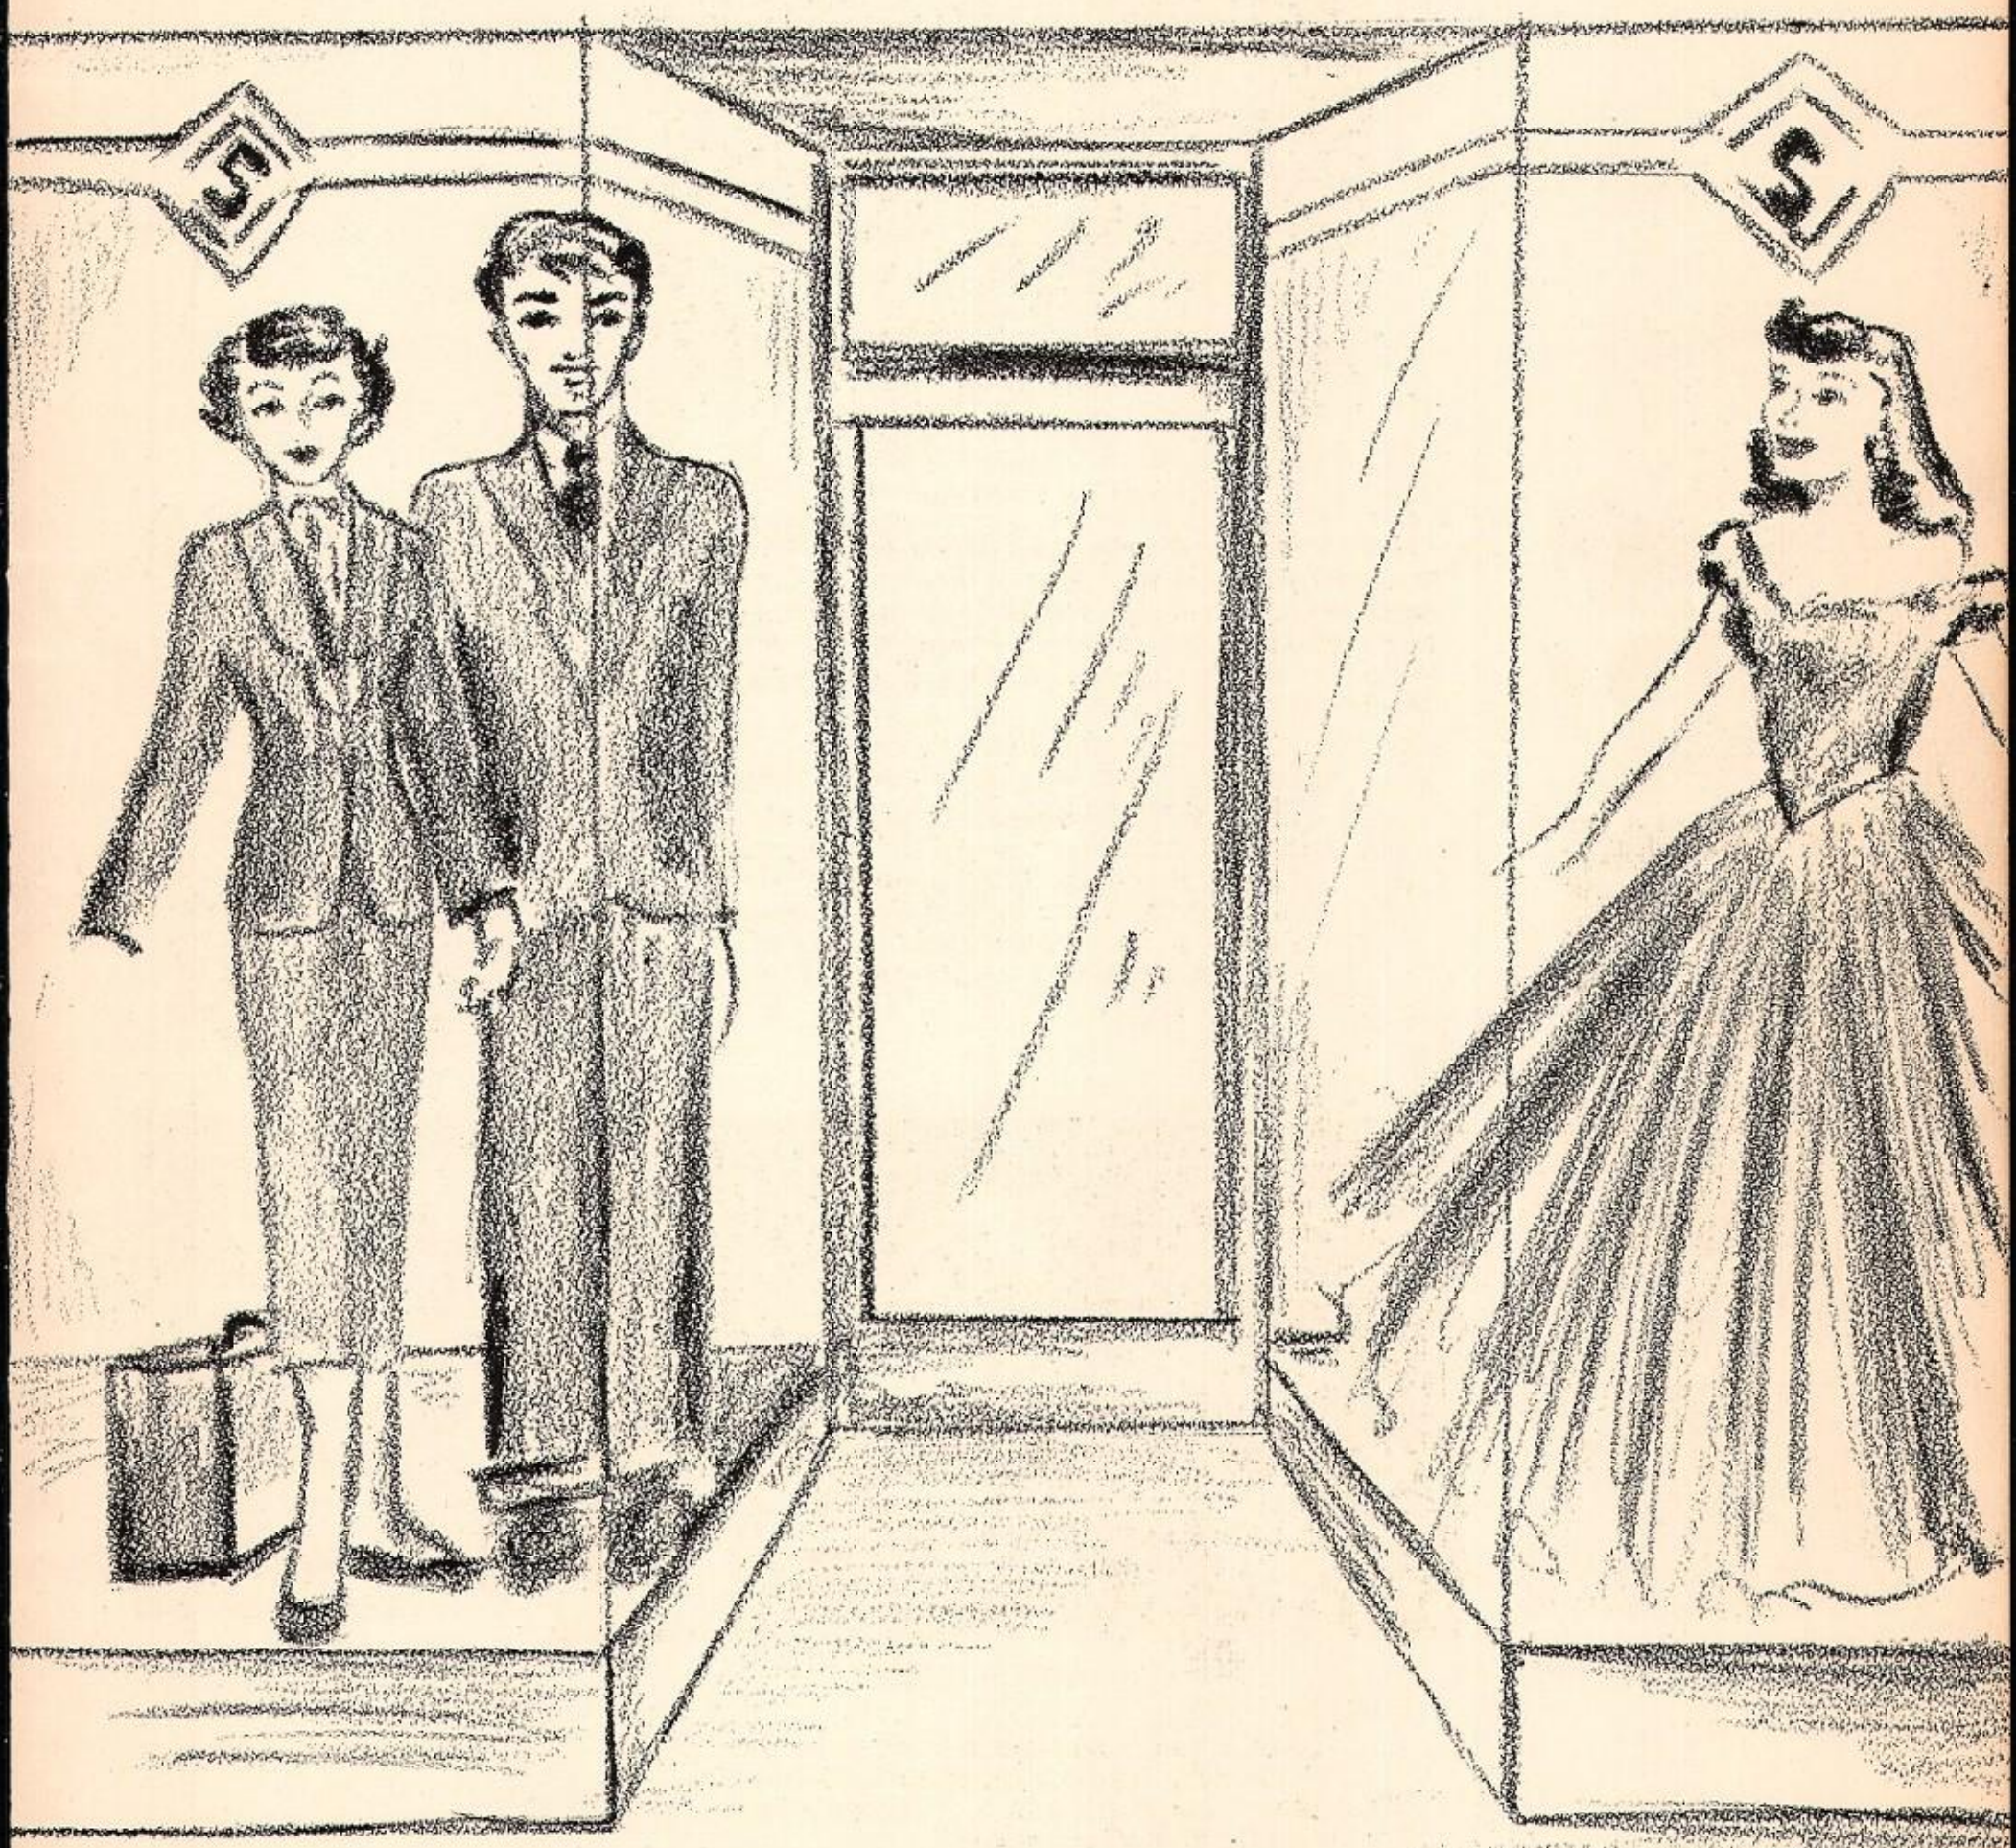
SPECIALTY SHOPPE



CLASS OF 1950

CLASS POEM

School has been a wonderous gift
To all the Senior Class.
It's difficult to realize
Graduation's here at last.
Looking back behind us, a sigh
comes from our heart
There's been so very many things
In which we've taken part.
Success has been our virtue
Throughout our high school years.
We remember plays and dances
And the dreaded regent's fears.
Though schooling days are over,
Our life will just begin;
We'll achieve acclaim in many things
Seniors are taught to win.

THE FUTURE SHOP OF THE SMALL FRY

THIS is the architect's plan of the new elementary school to be built in the near future.

Grade Consumers

USING their copy book as a guide, the first grade students make their letters as best they can.

SIDNEY CENTRAL ELEMENTARY PROGRAM

THE elementary school program of the Sidney Central School System from kindergarten to sixth grade in Sidney, Sidney Center, and Masonville, is under the direct supervision of Henry F. Hort, Grade Supervisor, with the assistance of twenty-nine elementary school teachers.

A basic objective in the entire school program is to have the children, over one thousand of them, to grow socially, emotionally, and intellectually in regulation to their ability in the basic fundamentals in the learning process.

MISS Carr's third grades find that the whole world is a puzzle.

jungle mural on which the young master painters have been working in connection with their Social Studies unit.

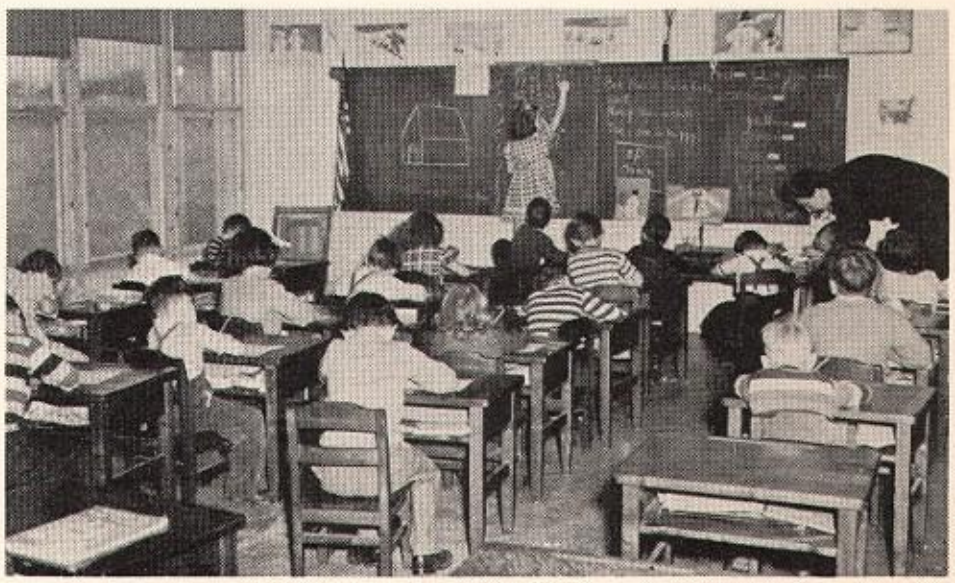
CADET teachers Phyllis Kerrigen and Gracia Stone examine the works of art of Miss Kohler's class. Miss Kerrigen and Mrs. Stone are Senior students at State Teachers College, Oneonta, New York.



Mrs. Edwards of the Project School assists her young scholars with the problems of writing their one-two-threes.

Books, books everywhere, and all of them to read. About 600 books were displayed at the Book Fair sponsored by the Oneonta State Teacher's College and the Sidney Central School. Seven story tellers went around to different classes as another part of the book week celebration.

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL

THE School Safety Patrol is composed of all boys from the three sections of Grade 6, over sixty in number, who are concerned with the need for developing "safety consciousness" on the part of the elementary children and to prevent all possible accidents. They are now launched into their seventh year of operation and the patrols in the past have earned a perfect safety award from the American Association for each year of participation.

The Sidney Safety Patrol has also had the honor of selecting a boy to represent not only Sidney, but New York State as well at the annual "round-up" of safety patrol members at Washington, D. C. last spring.
These boys provide both street and corridor supervision and are demonstrating daily a willingness to serve others as well as gaining leadership experiences.

Annual Sale

THE two stars, the three Santa Clauses, the Angel and the Candy Kisses are pleasant surprises to the three children who have just been whisked away to the Isle of Christmas Dreams in the grade operetta.

STRANGE characters live on the Isles of Christmas Dreams or so this year's grade operetta tells us. The Candle Girls on the left and the many kinds of animals as well as the little pajama tots in front make the Isle an exciting place.

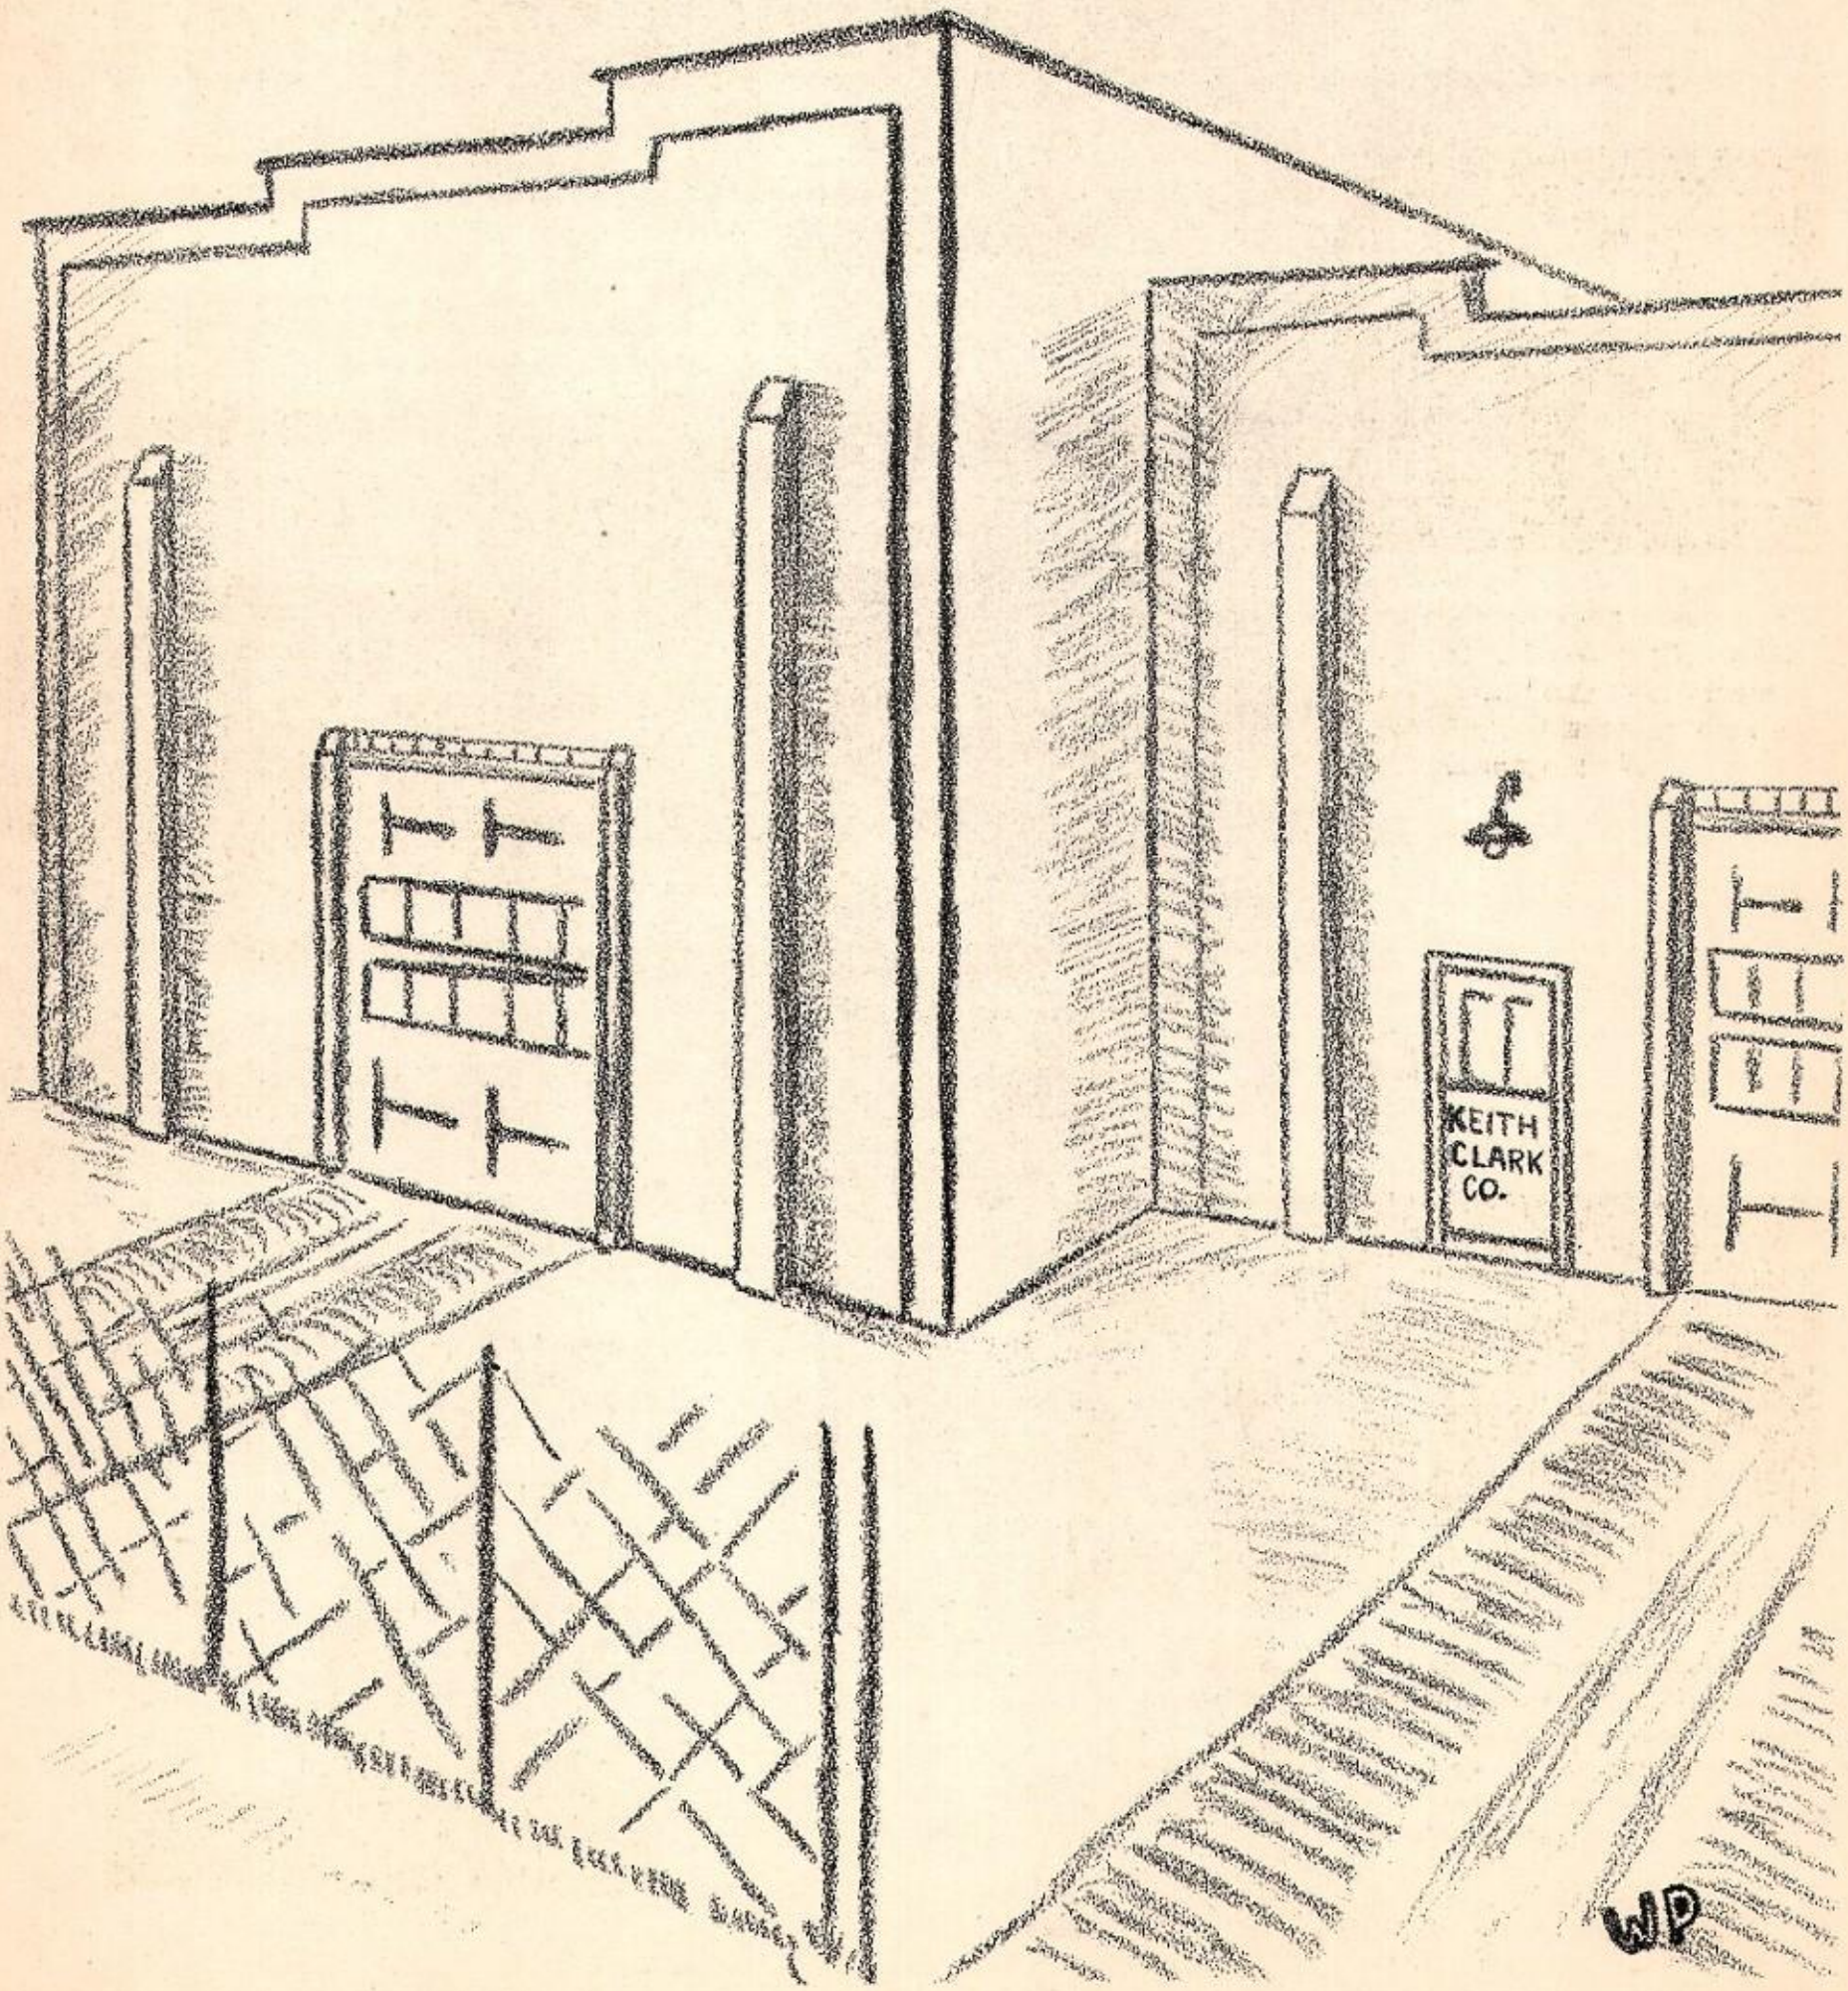
CALENDAR SHOP



REGISTRATION DAY

STUDENTS learn the virtue of patience while waiting for lockers which are being assigned by Mrs. Countryman. Students Marlene Hall, Doris Reynolds and Barbara Benedict are first in line.

MISS Ruth LeCaro counsels with students about schedules as registration officially opens for the school year.

ANNUAL ART EXHIBIT

POTENTIAL artist, Robert Porter, reviews the ceramic exhibit of his fellow cohorts.

STUDENTS of the art department line up during the evening on which much of their efforts in the field of art were judged.

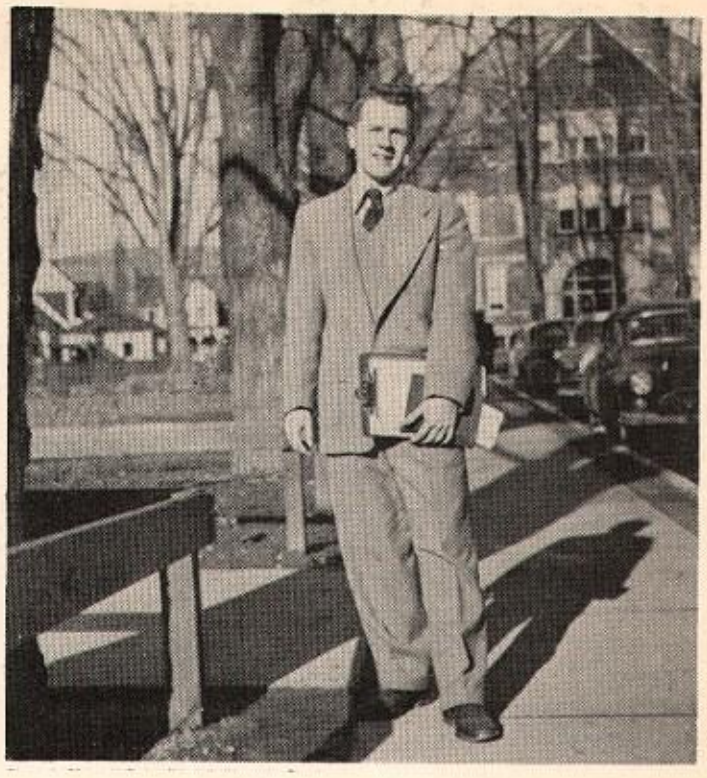
A vivid example of the skills and trades of the shop are displayed for parent approval.

STUDENT TEACHING DAY



IN the course of every school year, the National Honor Society plans a student-faculty switch. At the right senior Richard Nelson prepares to take over his assigned classes for the day.

MEMORIAL DAY

After the ceremonies, Mr. Clark gives the signal to leave the cemetery.

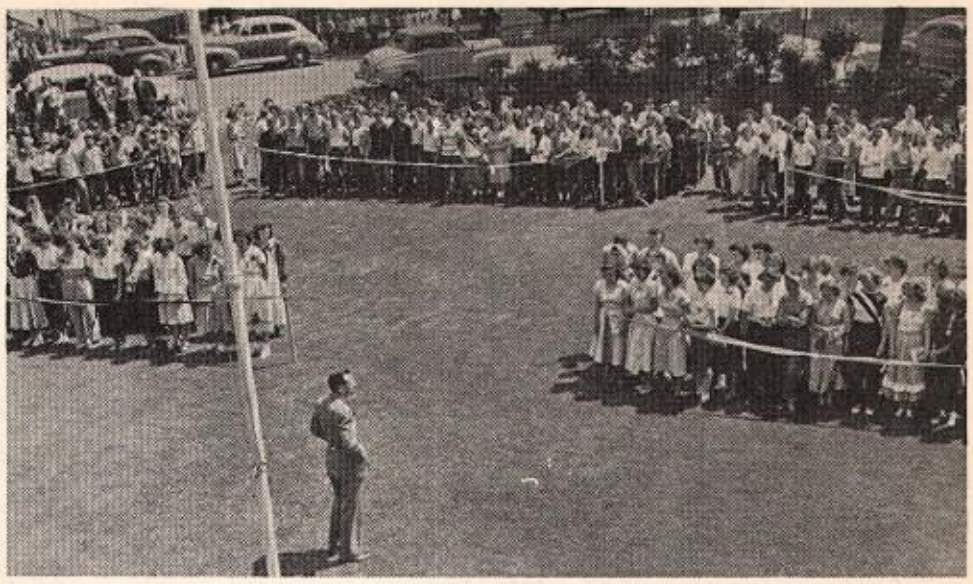
Forward March! Up the hill goes the band.

In a lighter moment majorette, Martha Getman, rests her weary legs.

MOVING-UP-DAY



SPEAKING before the classes as they prepare to move up, the Rev. Mr. Russell Shive delivers a Moving-Up-Day address.

AS well as a "big day" for students, Moving-Up-Day usually finds parents, friends, and alumni present for the festivities. Above, Sheldon Barnes, John Coulter and Leland Murdoch reminisce with Mr. Alan Drake.

COMMENCEMENT

AT the 1949 Baccalaureate exercises Helen Dzurissin, valedictorian, leads the class to their assigned places in the auditorium.

GRADUATION! The moment worth waiting for! The Rev. Mr. Lawrence Durgin sends the Seniors of 1949 on their way.
